Did you know that Zorn's was the first to cook and serve BBQ rotisserie chicken in the NY area?

Way back in the 1940's Pop Zorn purchased the first barbeque chicken oven (we call it rotisserie now) and started selling what is now our famous chicken.

In fact, he worked with the manufacture to design the oven so it cooked his carefully grown chickens to perfection.

Once the unit was delivered and tested thoroughly (Pop was a stickler for quality) he started cooking. But before he started selling them, he needed to create a special spice to they accented the chicken and added the perfect flavor. He started to mix spices and test them with his customers till it tasted just right and we still use that original recipe today! In fact, you can buy Pop Zorn's special seasoning at all of our locations. And boy did they sell.

Word got around and within a few years, everybody wanted to pick up a perfectly cooked Zorn's chicken. That's just one of the reasons we say that there's a bit of history in every bite!
